Fast Fashion Sucks

El Woods

Insanity:

The fashion industry consumes enough water every year to provide clean drinking water to 5 million people.

Producing one cotton T-shirt uses 2,700 liters of water, about what a person drinks in 2½ years.

10,000 items are sent to the landfill every 5 minutes

Textile waste accounts for 20% of global water pollution

What can we do?

Thrifting + ReSelling

(isn't enough)

El Woods

Thrift stores are awesome...

But they are fragmented, transactional, and don't deepen consumer awareness.

Thrifting alone doesn't:

- Address overconsumption culture.
- Connect customers emotionally to the impact of their choices.
- Provide a curated, inspiring environment that shifts behavior from “cheap shopping” to conscious lifestyle.

THRIFT STORES:

Boring Chaotic No Repurposing
Overconsumption Overstocked
Cluttered Low Quality Dirty
Overwhelming Frustrating

They operate more as resale outlets rather than catalysts for change.

Thrift Stores are in need of a revival!

Introducing

El Woods

El Woods

A uniquely immersive retail + cafe experience
blending sustainability, art, and community

Welcome to the Woods...

El Woods

Every element of El Woods tells the same story: reclaimed wood, living walls, handmade furniture, natural light, and air thick with greenery.

Our woodland immersion encourages guests to rethink consumption itself, feel more grounded and calm, awaken ecological awareness, and inspire a more conscious way of living.
